E-Billing I

Dear Jeff,

KRESS is going to be introducing E-Billing this month. This program will devlier your monthly invoice via email in a secure Adobe Acrobat file.

With growing cost of standard mail, it has become an expensive undertaking each month to send invoices with the US Postal Service. As I'm sure you're aware, the current economic climate has added presure on all businesses to trim the excess and operate in a more cost-effective and sustainable fashion.

With this program, KRESS will be able to continue to offer clients low-cast products and services with a new twist.

E-Billing

What Does It Mean for You?

The Look

The Invoices will look exactly the same. If you like the easy to read format of the KRESS invoices that you receive in the mail, there's no reason that you won't enjoy working with the emailed invoices.

Security

The invoices will arrive in a password protected file just like reports that are sent via email. In this way, the sensitive data contained on the invoices will be securely maintained on your computer for your review.

Questions

If you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact me so that I can answer your concerns.

Cleint/Vendor Screening

Recently, KRESS has been deluged with clients who need to start screening clients and/or vendors. In today's market place, it's becoming critical to be able to tell if a new client can meet the agreed billing terms. Vendors can sometimes disappear, leaving your clients wanting for the services that you're supposed to provide. Avoid these nightmares with a background check that includes a civil search at the county court, state district court and federal district, a search of secretary of state records, assumed business names, UCC filings, and a search for liens against business or owner and a business credit report.
